When there’s sunshine, people are happy. Sunshine is popular and healthy. At least, in some ways, it’s healthy. It helps our bodies produce certain vitamins. It provides vitamin D which keeps our bodies healthy. The sun also stops us getting depressed.

When it’s sunny, most people actually feel happier. They also behave in a more friendly way to others. If a country has a ‘bad’ summer when there’s little sunshine, psychologists say you can clearly see that people become more miserable.

Until the 1930s, it was fashionable to have white skin. Then the fashion designer, Coco Chanel appeared in Paris with a suntan. It quickly became the fashionable thing to do and everyone wanted to have tanned skin.

Now we know more about the effects of sunshine than ever before. The negative aspects, for example skin cancer, are much more widely known. Many more people now use sun cream as protection from the sun.

Our weather systems are changing. The ten warmest years ever recorded were in the 1980s and 1990s. The oceans cover 72% of the Earth’s surface and they take in huge amounts of heat from the sun.

As the Pacific Ocean becomes warmer it makes El Niño (a warm current of water along the west coast of South America) more powerful. This plays a part in creating disasters, such as flooding as far away as Europe, India and northern China.

FERNDIG ISLANDS

Three miles across the water from the town of Blascott lies the group of islands known as the Ferndigs. The main island is St. Michael. Separated by a narrow channel of water is St Michael’s little sister, St Margaret. People first lived on these islands 1, 500 years ago. By the 1950s the population had gone down to below twenty, and in 1960 the last person left the islands. But in 1991 two families moved back, and since then more people have followed. Tourists now visit regularly to enjoy the beautiful scenery.

Visit the one shop on the islands which sells butter, cheese and bread produced by the families who live there. The produce is also taken by boat to restaurants in Blascott, where it can be enjoyed by visitors to the area. Perhaps more interestingly, a range of perfumes is made from the wild flowers and herbs which grow on the island and can be bought in the shop. They are produced mainly for export and are very special. So a visit to the shop is a must!

St Michael Island is easily explored on foot but, in the interests of safety, visitors are requested to keep to the main footpaths. From where the boat lands, walk along the cliff until you reach a steep path signposted to the church. When you get there, it is worth spending a moment in this lovely old building. Carry on along the same path which continues to climb to the highest point on the island. Priory Beach on the eastern side of the island is safe for swimming. Sandtop Bay on the western side is the other sandy beach, but swimming is not advised here.

It is possible to hire a boat to cross to the islands, or you can take one of the boat trips which depart from Blascott harbour in summer, Monday to Friday. The islands are always open to visitors apart from on Sundays. Buy a ticket for a boat trip from the kiosk in Blascott harbour. The charge for landing on the islands is included in the ticket but, if you take your own boat, remember to take some money. The crossing takes thirty minutes, and boats run every fifteen minutes.

Before you set off on a trip, visit the exhibition centre which tells the history of the islands.
LIVING ABOARD

In many of the world’s cities, on canals and rivers or in marinas, you can find people who have chosen to live on the water. The Wilkinsons have lived aboard their boat for fifteen years. Much of that time they have spent sailing around the world. Here’s what they had to say about living aboard.

Mary Wilkinson
People sometimes ask me if I think it’s fair to the children. How could it not be fair? They live in a less polluted, safer environment. They get to travel and become comfortable with and able to deal with people of all ages and from different cultures. This makes them confident and relaxed. Children who live aboard are often better educated because instead of being taught in overcrowded classrooms they learn with their brothers and sisters and with a parent as the teacher.

Sunny Wilkinson
People usually don’t believe we live on a boat until I show them a photo. It seems so different to the lifestyles they know. Of course living aboard has its advantages and disadvantages. It’s fantastic living so close to nature and getting to know other cultures and languages. It’s also really exciting to sail off somewhere and know that you will see new places and meet new people, but sometimes I have made new friends somewhere and then they move on or we do. Saying goodbye to people is always hard.

Jeffrey Wilkinson
I’ve already decided that I’m going to get a boat when I’m older and go cruising with my friends. I have had so many experiences and seen so many amazing things: dolphins, whales, fantastic tropical fish and a lot of beautiful places on land as well. My only worry is how I will get on with the kids in a normal classroom and with the school system in general. I want to go to university and I don’t know how well I’ll do in the final exams. Mum and Dad both say I’m ahead of other kids of my age, but I’m not sure.

16. What does the writer of the article want to tell her readers about?
A One family’s experience of living on a boat.
B Why she thinks it’s a good idea to live on a boat.
C The disadvantages of living on a boat.
D Where you can see people living on boats.

17. How does Mary Wilkinson feel about other lifestyles?
A She thinks they are unfair to children.
B She thinks they do not offer the advantages of living aboard.
C She is not sure what she thinks about them.
D She thinks they are safer than living aboard.

18. What is the main disadvantage of living aboard according to Sunny Wilkinson?
A She has to learn foreign languages.
B She hasn’t made many friends.
C They stay in the same place for too long.
D She misses her friends.

19. Why is Jeffrey Wilkinson worried?
A He does not know as much as other people his age.
B His parents think he is behind other people his age.
C He thinks he might not get good enough results to get into university.
D He wants to go to a normal school.

20. Which of the Wilkinsons have the same opinions about the advantages of living aboard.
A Mary and Jeffrey agree that the children are better educated.
B Jeffrey and Sunny agree that meeting new people and getting to know new cultures are important.
C Marry and Sunny agree that it is good to get away from pollution.
D Sunny and Jeffrey both think it is wonderful to be in close contact with nature.
